Prepare To Dig For 21c

At 5:00 o'clock this afternoon, the city council will meet at city hall for five minutes to pass two resolutions, one to approve a $519,-153 budget for 1960-61; the other to set the city property tax rate at $1.17.

This is 21 cents more than you paid this year.

The budget is $94,051 larger than last year; the largest budget in the history of the city as every budget has been since the inauguration of the one cent city sales tax in 1956. For the first time since the inauguration of the sales tax the property tax rate has been pegged to raise more revenue than the anticipated sales tax will bring in.

Anticipated sales tax revenue for 1960-61: $147,000; property tax revenue: $159,822.

This biggest, costliest budget is also the quickest. Your editor saw it for the first time late Wednesday afternoon, last week; the city councilmen received it in the mail the same day. Friday, the first public budget session was held; last night the second.

The 1.17 tax rate is distributed in this manner: general fund, 62 cents; retirement, 23 cents; library, 30 cents; bond retirement, .02 cents. The latter runs out next year. The increase is in the tax to raise revenue for the general fund, from 41 cents to 62 cents.

Last night's budget session extended from 8:00 to 11:15 o'clock. Except for the last 15 minutes, the time was given over to Gunnar Norberg's proposing reductions in the budget, and the four other city councilmen disposing, unanimously "no."

The meeting probably would have lasted for a half hour instead of for over three had Mayor Frank Putnam and Councilman

Planners Make 5 Changes In Zoning Ord.

Yesterday afternoon planning commissioners officially approved five changes to the proposed new zoning ordinance for the business district. Next Wednesday evening at a joint meeting with the city council they may make other changes before adopting the new zoning ordinance and giving it to the council with recommendations for enaction. Meeting is at 8:00 o'clock.

Changes yesterday were a 30 percent increase in height of business buildings in certain circumstances; a reduction in aggregate sign sizes to 32 square feet for any single business; inclusion of design approval of any ornamental, pictorial or decorative material on or about the exterior of a business building; deletion of ice storage houses as a conditional use in the C-1-S zone; and the removal of sheet metal shops from the C-1-S conditional use category to C-2 zone.

Last week Pacific Telephone Company representatives requested the commission to make provision for an increase in building height above the permitted 30 feet for communication equipment. Yesterday commissioners changed the new zoning ordinance to allow the Board of Adjustments to grant an exception for an increase of 30 percent for the housing of special communications utility or service facilities, or, for a pitched roof where topography justifies that a building shall be over 30 feet high.

No single business, regardless of lineal frontage, shall be allowed more than a total of 32 square feet of separate signs on any one street frontage. The total allowable square footage of all separate signs, regardless of lineal footage, shall not exceed 48 square feet; and no single sign in the aggregate shall be larger than 16 square feet.

Commissioners included design control of exterior decoration, ornamental or pictorial materials in

In spite of a public hearing Monday night in which all but three speakers asked the planning commission to remove gas stations, plumbing shops, bus depots, sheet metal works and other C-2 uses from the list of uses permitted on use permit in the C-1-S zone of the proposed new zoning ordinance, the commission removed only sheet metal works and ice storage houses from the list, at its meeting yesterday.

To put gas stations on use permit in the C-1-S zone so they won't cluster on Junipero Street in C-2 is typical of the confused thinking of the planning commission in matters of use permits, non-conformances, etc.

If the planning commission wants to control gas stations on Junipero Street in the C-2 district, they should put them on use permit in the C-2 district.

The sentiment against the commission's proposal to down-grade, through use permits, a large portion of a presently protected part of the Class 1 zone was strongly presented Monday night by: Jim Buffington, former city councilman; Victor Velissaratos, Herbert Heron, former Carmel mayor, former Carmel planning commissioner; Col. C. A. De Camp, Rose Crumrine, Admiral C. W. Fisher, who withdrew the Carmel Citizens Committee's approval of gas station use permits; S. A. Dibble; Attorney George Walker, speaking for Fred Leidig; Janice Bow, Florence Burrill, Dick Siller.

J. O. Handley, expressed himself satisfied with the proposed new zoning. As a property owner in C-2, he is not affected. Paul Reavis, taxi business proprietor supported bus stations in C-1-S on use permit, with taxi stations to be included; Alfred Meah asked for an extension of the business district to provide a transition zone to the residence district.

Adm. Fisher asked that 8000 square feet be set as a maximum building site.

Carmel Youth Center At Half Way Point In Fund Drive

Concurrently with their fund drive to raise $7,660.66, Carmel Youth Center members are holding their Tenth Annual Open House on Wednesday evening.

This morning fund drive returns amounted to $3,000, according to Youth Center Director Jack Giles. Members are encouraged that at the end of the first week they have almost gained the halfway mark, he added.

Youth Center Adult Board President P. A. McCreery also finds this progress encouraging, wishes to thank all persons who have contributed to the drive so far and says he has a receipt book in his office on Dolores Street if any person cares to drop in and make a donation.

The open house party, to which all the community is invited, begins at 7:30 o'clock. Herb Miller and his 13-piece band will play for dancing in the recently enlarged auditorium which will be open to the general public for the first time. Carmel Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Club members inspected the addition on August 16 at a barbecue, the fund drive kick-off, and over $300 was collected as the first contribution towards the necessary sum to keep the teenage recreation center open until this time next year.

Since then Youth Center members have been circulating throughout the Carmel Unified School District seeking donations. Each member has an identification card and gives a receipt for any donation. Contributions are income tax deductible.

PADRES OPEN FOOTBALL PRACTICE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Although the school bell isn't slated to ring until September 6, Carmel High grid aspirants must report to "class" Wednesday, August 31, for preliminary training sessions. In order to give boys who have summer jobs a chance to take part in the early drills, the pre-school practice sessions will be held from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. Both varsity and junior-varsity candidates are invited to take part in the early workouts, but the lightweight players are not scheduled for practice until school starts. Medical exams for all varsity and junior-varsity players will be given from 9:00 to 11:00 on Monday and Tuesday mornings.

The Padres are defending champions in both the varsity and junior-varsity divisions of the CCAL B-League and both squads will face severe challenges from the seven other schools in the league. Carmel's varsity is currently riding an undefeated string of 26 games and will find all opponents zealously trying to put an end to the win skein. The Little Padres are also in the midst of a sizable win streak and Coach Fred Rainer's charges will be fair game for all opposition.

Nine veterans from last year's championship team are expected to greet Coach George Mosolf when the varsity hits the turf for the first time next Wednesday. Back for another year of duty with the Red & Gray are quarterback Frank Mayo, one of the league's top runners in 1959; halfbacks Mike Draper, Mike Taylor, and Bill Coleman; tackles John and Chris Wilkin, both with two seasons of varsity competition behind them; center Paul Rice, the top linebacker in the league last season; and ends Mike Dunham and Doyle Clayton. With 24 players lost via graduation, the Padres will rely heavily on talent moving up from the junior-varsity. Jayvee letter-winners making their first try at varsity ball will be Tony Belleci, David Faulkner, Brook Scherman, Danny Moore, Frank Bucher, Tony Schaurrer, Bartley Blout, Charlie Todd, Scott Forbes, Steve Rogers, Mark Sloane, Paul Jones, Wylie Bryant, Mike Quarrie, Mike Smith, Jim Willcox, Lee Oleson, Don deBord, and Frank Preve.

Carmel's varsity opens play in the CCAL Jamboree on September 16, will hold its annual Red & Gray game September 23, and will go into league action at the new Gilroy High stadium on September 30. The Padre junior-varsity will host the North Salinas jayvees in a practice game on September 24 and will also start playing for keeps on September 30 at Gilroy.

HOLLISTER BEATS PILOT MARKET IN LITTLE LEAGUE PLAYOFFS

Pilot Market, Carmel's entry in the District Nine Little League Playoffs, ran afoul of Hollister's home run power last Saturday afternoon at King City and had to settle for fourth place in the season's windup tournament. The Hollister Braves put together a big fourth inning to shove across five runs on two homers and three Pilot miscues to gain a 7-2 decision over Art Carpenter's hustling aggregation. Hollister's win over Carmel earned the Braves the consolation title, but the big tournament winner was the star-studded Salinas Valley Center which came from behind to clip Cochran Motors, 7 to 5, for the District 9 title.

Pilots took an early lead in Saturday's game as first-sacker Tim Head blasted a home run in the second heat to give the locals a 1-0 lead which held up until the fatal fourth. The grocers hit the board again in the sixth frame when Mike Spowart scored on Terry Mosolf's fly to right field, but the Hollister gang put the icing on the cake in the bottom of the sixth when it again put the home run ball to work to notch two markers.

Ronnie Fukagawa, Pilot catcher, lashed out a pair of singles to lead the grocers in the hitting department. Mike Spowart, Tim Head, and Terry Mosolf were the only other Carmel swingers to hit safely off the strong Hollister pitching.

Following Saturday's final game, the King City Little League played host to the District 9 Tournament participants with Gene Robertson, District 9 Director, presenting pins to each performer.

Except for an 8:00 o'clock business meeting at the Sunset School Cafeteria on September 6, Saturday's game at King City winds up the highly successful 1960 season.

CCAL BOARD OF MANAGERS COMPROMISE WITH OFFICIALS

Just when it appeared certain that Coast Counties Athletic League football players would have to suffer through a season with inexperienced officiating crews, a timely suggestion by CCAL's sportswriters brought the officials together with the Board of Managers and a workable compromise is likely to be effected. The Coast Counties Officials Association is reluctant to work with three-man crews and strongly favors the recommendation of the California Interscholastic Federation which urges all leagues to use four-man officiating crews. However, the CCAL Board of Managers voted for three officials for this fall and a stalemate appeared inevitable until the sportswriters paved the way for a compromise meeting.

In an open meeting for principals, coaches, parents, and officials at Watsonville Monday night, both sides gave in a little and it appears likely that the veteran officals will be blowing the whistle when the preps kick off the season on September 16.

The big compromise effected provides for three-man crews during 1960 with the four-man teams taking over for the 1961 season. An evaluation will be made to determine which is the more effective and the two bodies will be governed by the findings of the evaluation committee. To further assuage the proponents of four-man crews, the Board of Managers has indicated it will consider raising the officiating fees from twenty to twenty-five dollars for a double-header.

Next Monday night in an 8 o'clock meeting at Watsonville, the football officials will meet to mull over the principals' offer and organize for the coming season. Carmel has eight whistle-tooters active in the Coast Counties Officials Association and they are all veterans with three or more years experience.

Senator Farr Flies East; Son Flies To Fight Sierra Fires

Senator Fred Farr and his son, Sam, on vacation from Willamette University, had no time for an airport farewell on Sunday when Sam rushed to join firefighters in the Sierra and the Senator flew to Washington, D.C. to attend a meeting of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

Sam, who has been patrolling the Arroyo Seco area for the U.S. Forest Service this summer, left directly for Tahoe and a few minutes after arrival, was rushed to the Donner Lake area to head up a crew of six men backfiring against a 55-mile wind.

The senator is one of seven members of the California Commission on Uniform State Laws, to which he was appointed in 1957. Purpose of the organization, which includes representatives of every state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, is "to promote uniformity in state laws on all subjects where uniformity is deemed desirable and practicable."

Farr is vice chairman of the national group's standing legislative committee and chairman of the State Senate's subcommittee on the Uniform Commercial Code, now under study by the Legislature and commercial lawyers for possible adoption in California.

Ted Kuster Eye-View Of Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

The following is a transcript of a talk presented recently to the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club. No doubt there are other points of view and interpretations of the early-day theatrical rivalries in Carmel. This is Ted Kuster's own, which we are running serially in the Pine Cone. Views expressed by Mr. Kuster do not necessarily represent the opinions of the editor and publisher of this newspaper.

PART V.

In Carmel the Golden Bough plays continued one after the other, and gradually all but the most obstinate Arts and Crafts Club people were convinced and won over. Unluckily their own productions, meanwhile, showed little improvement. Under the leadership of the Old Guard there was the same delightful pandemonium; curtain going up late; cues missed; prompter's voice heard constantly; crude settings; careless make-up; and over all a sort of old-fashioned acting that was wholly out of place in contemporary plays. My friend Perry Newberry, arch-primitivist and principal opponent of the Golden Bough, was true to form. He hated precision equipment and pre-arranged lighting charts. I have seen him, minutes after curtain-time, rushing about setting up bare lights and placing dish-pans back of them in lieu of reflectors.

Finally they gave up. They leased their plant to George Ball, a young Golden Bough player who had come here with Maurice Browne and who wanted to fly with his own wings. He reorganized Arts and Crafts Theatre, called it Carmel Playhouse and improved the quality of the productions. The ensuing rivalry between the two theatres was interesting and healthy.

In the fall of 1927 I set off for Europe, bent on studying production in Berlin, then the fountainhead of contemporary as well as classical theatre. I leased the Golden Bough for a year to Miss Dene Denny and Miss Hazel Watrous, with an option for a second year. They were both artists and were loyal fans of the theatre, so I knew it would be safe in their hands. I had hardly got across the Atlantic when I had an urgent message from a friend. Things were about to go badly and I ought to hurry home. This I did, finding a curious state of affairs. The Abalone League, a soft-ball baseball organization numbering about a hundred members all over the Peninsula, had for years been presenting the annual Carmel Follies, a revue with local talent. I had always given them their three nights rent-free in the Golden Bough. It seemed like good public relations, as they say. Now, Miss Denny thought otherwise. She had positively denied them the only dates which they asserted were convenient for them. And she wanted rent. Charley Van Riper, their producer, had told Miss Denny, just before I arrived, that she would hear from him later, but had said it "with a scowl", she said, and she feared something was up. Sure enough, I hadn't been home a week before it was announced that the Abalone League had bought the Arts and Crafts plant, lock, stock and barrel. It was now the Abalone Theatre. That was a pretty how-de-do! They employed two directors and set to work to run my lessees off their feet. I didn't dare return to Europe and I didn't think it would be useful to mix into the local scene just at that moment, so I went down to Southern California to wait the thing out.I hadn't long to wait. The Denny-Watrous management wrote me that they must throw in the towel and could not take up their second year option. I quote from their letter, "The effort to kill the theatre seems more organized than ever. We do not mind contributing our time and some degree of experience but we cannot lose any more money, and are forced to withdraw. We have heard on all sides that when you return they will make it so impossible for you that you will sell to them for a song."

And so I came back in that summer of 1928 to embattled Carmel, finding the League indeed ready to make it tough for me. I realized the futility of opposing a hundred young people, backed by their sisters, cousins, aunts and sweethearts. So I resorted to what would now be called psychological warfare—in this instance, non-resistance. I simply leased the Golden Bough at a smallish rent to Gerald Hardy, our local movie exhibitor, and slipped away again to Europe. The town was scandalized, for I had made a movie house out of their lovely theatre and had also deprived them of the opportunity to enjoy a good fight. But I had an instinctive confidence that the Abalone baseball boys and girls were so little interested in theatre for its own sake that when they had no opponent, they would let their theatre peter out. And that's exactly what happened. When I came back in the fall of 1929, with my pockets full of plays and my head full of new ideas, Harrison Godwin, who has made such a notable success of his Pine Inn, but at that time was a zealous Abalone leader, came to me and said, "Ted, we're fed up with the theatre. The shows haven't been good for a long time. We're losing money. There's been a continual battle between ——— and his friends on one side and ——— and his friends on the other. We're tired of the thing. It isn't our game. We'll name an easy price—buy the place from us." Until now I have never told anyone except my wife how glad I was to take over the Abalone plant, though I had no inkling then of what a life-saver it would some day turn out to be.

As to the Golden Bough — the depression had started and the only prudent course was to accept a liberal rental offer from the general movie chain. The term was five years. The dispossessed Mr. Hardy was indignant. But he went over to Fresno and now he owns 19 theatres and has literally become a millionaire. But somehow he's never come back to thank me for pushing him off the limb and out of Carmel.

I gave the Abalone Theatre a new name, the Studio Theatre of the Golden Bough. It was the beginning of 1930. Then began what I honestly believe to have been the golden period of Carmel play-production. All friction seemed to be ended. I had full community support for my ventures. Two of the plays I had brought from Germany and had translated were especially successful, Karl and Anna, with Gloria Stuart, and The Thripny Opera, a strange concoction of satire, sardonic humor and haunting president of the Carmel Kiwanis Club and vice president of the Youth Center adult board, and Youth Center members Darrell Clark and Danny Moore spoke to the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club. These two boys are in charge of the fund drive in the Valley above the Farm Center. Leslie Fike and Bonnie Dickens head the drive in the Lower Valley. Lynn Buvia and Patricia Wright are in charge of of the Carmel Highlands area; Carol and Joan Creighton and Judy Kinion for Pebble Beach. The Carmel business district is being covered under the direction of Bill Coleman and Tony Showers. Bruce Reifel is creating posters which will be placed at the Center entrance for the Open House.

The fund drive by Youth Center members is necessary as Community Chest support will not be included in the Chest's forthcoming drive. The Community Chest has eliminated youth center aid from their program. Also Carmel's school district trustees have signified that the annual sum of $3,500 from recreation tax funds may not be allocated to the youth center in next year's budget. This leaves the Youth Center lacking $7,660.66 to operate until September and members are seeking donations to cover this amount.

All teenage residents of the Carmel Unified School District are eligible for Youth Center membership. There are 750 members at the present time. These young people are eager to have everyone in the school district area inspect the Youth Center as their guests on Wednesday evening and see the facilities which they run through their council with community financial support.

Summer Reading Club To Have Annual Party Tomorrow

The annual party for the members of the summer reading club of the Harrison Memorial Library will be held at the Girl Scout House tomorrow at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be entertainment and fun for all the members of the club.

Because this is a presidential election year, the club had as its motif the presidents of the United States. When a child read a book he earned a small sticker bearing the likeness of one of our presidents. This he could affix to the chart of the presidents which was given to him when he joined the club. Twenty one children have read enough books to fill every space on the chart and have started a second chart, and many others have almost filled their first chart.

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, librarian, urges all club members to come to the party and so conclude a summer of reading enjoyment.

"A Contemporary Approach To Creative Carmel"

The Carmel Plaza's main floor level faces on Ocean Avenue, with a small second floor area over a portion of the building. In the middle of the block between Junipero and Mission, the structure is set back 30 feet to form a courtyard from which a walkway, covered by an open trellis, extends through to a balcony at the rear of the building. An open stairway leads down to an arcade level below, opening out at grade and a terrace overlooking the parking area.

Labor Dispute Fun At The Wharf In The Pajama Game

The Wharf Theatre's revival of one of its brightest musical hits, Pajama Game, looks and sounds even happier in the big-stage production at the new Alvarado Street Opera House.

How so much fun could be made from a plot about a wage dispute in a garment factory still remains a minor mystery, but with such Richard Adler-Jerry Ross numbers as Hey There, I'm Not At All In Love, Hernando's Hideaway, Her Is, and Steam Heat, even a political convention could be great entertainment.

Anyway, Pajama Game (book by George Abbott and Richard Bissell) is a dandy show, and the Wharf's high-flying cast gives it their all — which is considerable. Liz Fillo is a delight as Babe Williams, the belle of the union's grievance committee, and she has a wonderful way with a show tune. Management gets equally good representation by Charles Burks in the role of Sid Sorokin, the "Sleep-Tite" plant superintendent, his best part to date at the Wharf (where he is proving himself indispensable). And when he and Miss Fillo belt out their show-stopping duet There Once Was A Man, even the chandeliers swing.

The leads are backed up by a lineup of lively, funny characterizations by a strong supporting cast, chief among them Julie Kahle as the giddy, gorgeous stenographer, Gladys; James Watson as her absurdly jealous boyfriend, Hinesey; Larry Nier as the bumptious union boss, Prez; Fran Brewer as the plant's biggest flirt; and Bruce Rachlin as Sleeep-Tite's stuffed-shirt chief executive, Mr. Hassler. Ruth Crews does a neat turn acting and hoofing as the sympathetic secretary, Mabel, and Bonnie Wager, John Sheckler, Flemen Hardy and Mark Vance add acrobatic flourishes to the dance numbers. Peggy Ray, Sam Karas, Paul Colman and a roster of bright young Wharf regulars and newcomers also have a share in the noisy, tuneful, fast-stepping show.

The package is held together by the snappy direction of Robert Carson. Dale Lefler has done a neat job of the choreography and dance direction; Ernest Tweedy Jr. works hard and well as musical director, chief accompanist and leader of the pit orchestra, abetted by Karl Tanninger as choral director. Pat Dick's sets are bright and cleverly handled, and the usual good work on lighting, staging and other aspects of production comes from Vernon Soden, Pete Fletcher, Dave Riley and Marilyn Hellman, the latter earning special credit for the gay and inventive costuming.

Pajama Game plays Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Wharf, with an 8:30 curtain.

Bells Are Ringing Up The Valley At White Oaks Theatre

The final production of White Oaks Summer Theatre, Bells Are Ringing, opened last night with a 8:30 curtain. The Comden and Green musical stars Mary Sue Tatum as Ella Peterson and Pare Lorentz as Jeff Moss.

This refreshing comedy, directed by Mel Swope, concerns itself with the operation of Susanseverphone, a telephone answering service. Ella, the Florence Nightingale of the switchboard, has her life in the fingers of several of her customers. The manner in which Ella maneuvers in and out of some tight situations provides a great deal of comedy. Pare Lorentz as Jeff Moss, talented playwright, completes the love interest keyed off by Ella.

With choreography by Dan Sullivan, sets by Clark Mires, and costumes by Gary Hammer, this final production at White Oaks is aimed to please every theatre-goer.

This production is scheduled for a three week run.

CARMEL ASKED TO PAY ITS BLOOD DEBT

"We need 125 blood donors to meet our quarterly quota," states Mrs. Derek Rayne, Blood Program Chairman for the Carmel Red Cross. "Faced with the serious problem," she continued, "of replacing blood borrowed from the Center and used by local residents, we are appealing to friends and relatives of those who have already given blood to make replacements when the mobile unit is at the Carmel Red Cross on Thursday, September 1, from 10:00 to 1:30 o'clock.

Donors who wish to contribute to the supply of blood to be needed by two and a half year old Carol Louise McElroy, child of a former resident, will be accepted in Carmel. The child is to undergo surgery to repair a heart defect on September 23, at which time as much as 18 pints of blood may be used. Another former resident, Mrs. Anne Vaughn, continues to need a regular supply of blood. Mrs. Vaughn is now in Pasadena to be near her doctor, but is relying on friends in Carmel to help maintain the supply.

An additional local resident has seriously depleted the Center's supply of O-Negative blood, and a special plea is being made for this type. Telephone calls are being made to all known to have this rare type.

Sandy Stewart Kennedy Chairman

Carmel attorney Charles A. Stewart will serve as co-chairman with Mayor Arthur C. Atteridge of Salinas for Senator John F. Kennedy's Presidential campaign in Monterey County.

Mr. Stewart is a member of the Democratic Central Committee for Monterey County. He graduated from Stanford University in 1949 and Hastings Law School in 1953. He is now associated with the Carmel law firm of Heisler and Stewart.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

We have been doing our annual figuring this past week and we find that during the last fiscal year we circulated 172,456 books and magazines, and answered 4,464 reference questions. Now those were questions which require the use of reference books to find the answer, not the sort of questions such as tourists ask. We answered a million or so of those. Because of shifting population, we register patrons for one year only and twice each year we count our registration and remove from our files any card which has expired. Most of these registrations are renewed soon after, but we want that to happen, and the ones which are not renewed are the dead wood we eliminate by our sorting and counting. Averaging our monthly figures we find that we had during the entire year about 3,400 adults registered and 1,033 juveniles. The average overall circulation was almost 39 books per borrower. You may not have borrowed your quota among them, but your nextdoor neighbor probably took out more than his average share. We are proud of our averages and happy to have been able to serve you to that extent. It couldn't happen to nicer people.

The party for the children's summer reading club will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. If your child enrolled in the summer reading club, make sure that he gets to the party. There will be entertainment of some kind and fun for all, we hope. As usual, the party will be held in the Girl Scout House across the way, and our gratitude goes out to them for their hospitality.

A man named Wally Byam has been conducting trailer caravans all over the world for a number of years and now he has done a book on trailering. It is called Trailer Travel and if the trailer bug has been nibbling at you, you should give a look at this book, and then go forth and buy "a home on wheels." For people with plenty of time for wandering, this is perhaps the ideal solution.

If you are a good bridge player, the next book is for you. Written by Victor Mollo, it is entitled Bridge With A Master. It contains thirty bridge hands with instructions as to how they should be played. Not the easy obvious sort of hands, these are the really hard ones.

Two handsome new books on art are part of a series called The Art of the World. These two are Indonesia, the Art of an Island Group by Wagner, and India, Five Thousand Years of Indian Art by Goetz. The illustrations are in color and are very beautiful. For a change, the publishers restrained themselves so far as size is concerned, and these books are easy to hold in the hand and to read.

There is a new biography of Peter the Great by Ian Grey which has had good reviews. Peter the Great is said to have been the man who formed Russia into a modern power. There is also a fascinating book entitled Ghost Ship of the Pole by Wilbur Cross. It tells the story of the dirigible Italia which went down to crash into the polar ice pack in May of 1928. The foreword to the book was written by Stefansson, who in 1929 published an article entitled In Defense of Nobile, the builder and commander of the Italia. There are also 12 novels, four of which are mysteries. This seems to be a good week.

Last Chance Wed. For MPC Students To Take Tests

New students are arriving in daily increasing numbers to register at Monterey Peninsula College, but former students planning to attend the fall semester have not yet registered, according to college authorities.

Dean of Students Ralph Smith urges these students to telephone the college (FR 5-9821) as soon as possible to make their registration appointments. All registrations, together with course-of-study programs, must be complete by September 6.

Before completing registration, new students (i.e., all students new to MPC, whether freshmen or sophomores) must take placement examinations. These tests, given without charge, cover scholastic aptitude, English proficiency and mathematical ability, with the results to be used for counseling and guidance purposes.

Only one examination date remains, August 31. Testing will start at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and last through 2:00 o'clock at the Armory on campus.

August 22, 1960

Dear Wilma,

Recently a stalwart, healthy, pine tree was felled outside my kitchen window and joined the passing parade of Carmel trees. When will this slaughter end?

Before this wanton destruction I had two beautiful trees with homes for many birds to enjoy. Now only a eucalyptus remains, the lone tree for blocks. Why don't people who dislike the beauties of of Nature that God has given us stay in big cities and feast their eyes on rows and rows of rooftops. Thank the Good Lord we still have many trees that cannot be destroyed and thus keep the beauty and charm of our village from disappearing completely.

Yours for retaining Carmel as charming as possible,

Pop Smith

Ed note: Pop lives in a penthouse on Seventh Street and his kitchen window overlooks a lot on San Carlos Street from which the pine was removed, also a great part of the north-eastern area of the business district.

Lacy And Jack Are Married

Lighted candles in standard candelabra framed Lacy Williams and John Faia III on Saturday afternoon as they exchanged marriage vows before the carved altar of the Church of the Wayfarer decorated with bowls of massed white chrysanthemums. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray performed the ceremony before 150 guests at 3:00 o'clock.

The bridal party entered to the Lohengrin Wedding March, the bride on the arm of her father, Henry Meade Williams, who gave her in marriage. Her dress of white nylon tulle had a fitted bodice with short sleeves, embroidery outlining the sweetheart neckline and a large butterfly puff bow in back above a billowing floor-length skirt. A tiny heart-shaped seed pearl coronet held her elbow-length veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and orchids in her net-mittened hands.

Her sister, Mrs. Edgar R. Bryant, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Diane Paddleford, Gay Ashley and Mrs. Terry Lee Holland (Mary Elstob.) They were dressed alike in pale blue chiffon over taffeta frocks, with soft drapery at the necklines and backs of the full skirts. Their shoes were the same color as their dresses and their headbands of daisies and green leaves matched their daisy bouquets, the matron of honor's yellow and the bridesmaids' white.

Ron Faia was his brother's best man. Ushers were another brother, Tom Faia, Mike Meheen, and Daryl Jones, a Delta Tau Delta fraternity brother of the bridegroom at Oregon State College.

Mrs. Williams, the bride's mother, attended the wedding in a beige and white print silk dress, beige hat and corsage of coral carnations.

Mrs. Faia, the bridegroom's mother, wore a powder blue lace and taffeta sheath dress, tiny matching velvet veiled hat and yellow orchid corsage.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the Garden Room at La Playa Hotel. The bride and groom cut their cake with a silver knife that had been given to the bride by her godmother, the late Mrs. George Washington Stuart of Carmel, and was engraved with a date that corresponded to the date on which the bride and groom first met.

When the bride left with her husband for a San Francisco honeymoon she was wearing a pale green suit with beige veil hat, shoes and bag.

The bride attended Carmel Schools, Oregon State College, where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and Monterey Peninsula College.

The bridegroom, the son of Dr. and Mrs. John Faia Jr., is a Carmel High School graduate who has just finished his junior year at Oregon State College and will enter the College of Dentistry at the University of Southern California next month. He and his bride will live in Los Angeles.

Out of town guests at the wedding included the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Shearer of Toronto, Canada; the bridegroom's grandfather, John Faia Sr. of Los Angeles; his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Faia of Palo Alto with their son, Don; another aunt, Mrs. James Coyne of National City; also Mr. and Mrs. George Kellenberger of Seattle; and from Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pfeiffer and their daughter.

Detroits Enjoy Voyage

"Having a wonderful voyage," says the postcard to the Pine Cone from staff member Adele Detroit. She and her husband, Lance, were on their way to Japan on an MSTS transport when the card was sent.

"There are 1500 aboard, six retired couples and 189 teachers bound for Okinawa," Adele continues and adds that they were playing lots of bridge, sunbathing, seeing a movie every night and expected to land in Japan on Auguse 14.

Mrs. Lumly Marries Mr. Wiley

Mr. and Mrs. Roger French Wiley have returned to Carmel following a wedding trip to San Francisco and are making their home at Mission Street and Twelfth Avenue.

They were married in the Church of the Wayfarer on August 6. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiated at the ceremony which took place at 5:00 o'clock in the evening and was followed by a reception in the Garden Room of the church and later by a dinner in the private dining room of Tom's Cafe for 30 relatives and friends from out of town. Mrs. Wiley is the former Alice Nell Lumly of Carmel.

Sunset Baseball Beach Picnic

The Dodgers baseball team, Sunset Recreation League champions, were given a beach barbecue on Sunday by Mel Grimes of Quality Meat Market, team sponsor. All other players in the league were invited to the picnic in Cooke's Cove at the foot of Thirteenth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimes served barbecued spare ribs, hot dogs, soda pop and watermelon to 40 boys who arrived for lunch. Mel Grimes Jr., Pine Cone newsboy and manager of the Dodgers, helped his parents prepare for the party.

"I promised them a barbecue if they won," says Mr. Grimes, "and they did with 17 straight games to their credit."

Linda Moll Wed In Mission

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Matthew Weisser (Linda Moll) are living in San Francisco after a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe. They were married on August 13 in Carmel Mission during a Nuptial Mass celebrated by Father James Stapleton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Carl Moll, wore a waltz-length white lace dress made in princess style with three-quarter length sleeves and a row of tiny buttons fastening the back. A lace mantilla covered her head and she carried a spray of white baby roses.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Al Arrizza of Los Angeles (Priscilla Swanson) clad in a pale blue brocade sheath dress with matching hat and carrying pink baby roses.

The bridegroom's brother, Michael Weisser of Berkeley, was best man.

The reception following the double ring ceremony was held at the bride's home in Pebble Beach, decorated for the occasion with white stock, Shasta daisies and yellow and white roses. Mrs. Moll received the guests wearing a light blue Chinese brocade tailored dress with a grey veil hat and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. John Weisser of Hawthorne, Nevada, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in a rose-mauve linen gown with lace insets, matching bow hat and orchid corsage.

After the bridal couple had cut their wedding cake and been toasted in champagne, they left on their honeymoon. The bride changed before she left to a blue and green print dress, black shoes and bag.

The bride attended Bay School, Sunset School and was an honor graduate of Carmel High School. She continued her education at Mills College and recently has been employed in San Francisco.

Her husband attended Northwestern University before serving in the U.S. Marine Corps for two years. He is now associated with an insurance firm in San Francisco.

Out of town wedding guests were the bridegroom's aunt, Miss Katherine Boland of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; the bride's aunt, Mrs. Hartnell Lockridge and her daughter Penny Lockridge, both of San Francisco; the bride's uncle, Hal Brown of Bakersfield, with Mrs. Brown and their three daughters, Betsy, Karen and Martha, and the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Michael Weisser. Peninsula guests included Mrs. Paul Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Colden Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Geyer and their son, Harold, Paul Whitman, Peter Cook, Mrs. Malcolm Millard, Wendy Millard, and Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. E. L. Snopkowski.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The vital significance of the life and works of the master Christian will be the central topic of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus" which will be read at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

Scriptural selections will include the following from Luke's gospel (4:40, 41): "Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them. And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak: for they knew that he was Christ."

A correlative passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy includes the following (332:11-15): "The Christ is incorporeal, spiritual,—yea, the divine image and likeness, dispelling the illusions of the senses; the Way, the Truth, and the Life, healing the sick and casting out evils, destroying sin, disease, and death."

Toni Hamilton Wed On Saturday

Light from tall tapers gleamed on copper bowls of white chrysanthemums and gladiolii on the altar of All Saints' Episcopal Church, and nosegays of the same flowers decorated the center aisle for the marriage of Joan O'Brien "Toni" Hamilton to Robert William Haire on Saturday afternoon. The Reverend David Hill performed the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock before a large gathering of friends and relatives.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Fred B. Hamilton, Jr., of Los Angeles. Her long full-skirted peau de soie gown had a scoop front neckline, cap sleeves and a bow-like panel of embroidered roses falling from a square back neckline. Her Brussels lace mantilla was brought recently from Madrid by her sister, Heather, and she carried a scatter bouquet of white antherium.

She was attended by Heather as maid of honor and bridesmaids Carolyn Hansen, Robin Burnham, Helen Harrison of Palo Alto and Carole Williams of Seattle. They were dressed alike in avocado green taffeta and organza sheaths, matching bow headdresses with face veils, and carried bouquets of pale green spider chrysanthemums.

Sherman Hall III of San Francisco was best man for the groom. Ushers were three other Chi Psi fraternity brothers, Donald Piestrup of Selma, Edward Mascarin of Kingsburg and John Waggoner of New York, and the bride's half brother, Donel Geisen.

Mrs. Jean O'Brien Geisen, the bride's mother, attended the wedding in a pink champagne brocade mandarin-style gown with a corsage of gold orchids pinned on her bag.

Mrs. D. W. Haire, the groom's mother, wore a light blue silk print dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following a reception at Del Monte Lodge, the bride and groom left for a honeymoon at an undisclosed location. For traveling the bride wore a white tunic suit dress, black straw hat and accessories.

The bride graduated from Carmel High School in 1956 and the University of California in June of this year. She was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi sorority and was president of the Community Service Council.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Haire of Selma. He graduated from the University of California before attending Naval Officers Training School at Yorktown, Virginia and was recently commissioned as an ensign and stationed at San Pedro. He and his bride will live in Long Beach.

Mr. And Mrs. Bissantz Home

Back in Carmel after almost a year abroad are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bissantz and their daughter, Joan Willicombe. During his absence, Mr. Bissantz was elected chairman of the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Bissantz and Joan are occupying the del Carlo home but in September will move to a permanent residence on Carmel Point. Joan will return to Carmel High School as a senior this year. Last year she attended the American School in Lugano, Switzerland.

Her parents made an apartment in Lugano their headquarters until March and traveled to the south of France and Corsica during this time. After March they went to Greece for six weeks, explored the boot of Italy, visited Paris, Holland, Belgium and Copenhagen.

Joan joined her parents in Denmark after school was out and together they traveled to Berlin, visited briefly a short time before by Mr. Bissantz, and after a trip through Holland, Mrs. Bissantz and Joan sailed for home and Mr. Bissantz flew to Kansas. Christmas they all spent in St. Moritz.

for all subjects with assigned instructors for each class have been mailed to all seniors. Procedure for seniors will be similar to college registration, Mr. Edwards observes.

Friday juniors register 8:30-10:30; sophomores, 10:30-12:30; freshmen 1:30-3:30 o'clock.

There will be two lunch hours at the High School each day this year. These are designed so that freshmen and sophomores may eat first, juniors and seniors later, in accordance with their class schedules. The first lunch period is at 12:05, the second an hour later. Those not at lunch will be in classes. Each daily class period will last 55 minutes.

The pre-opening registration sessions are an attempt to eliminate changes in student study programs which delay instruction during the first week of school, Mr. Edwards states. When school officially opens on September 6 there should be no interruptions in instruction under the new pre-registration program, he adds.

"Not even an assembly until the first one requested by the Student Council," Vice Principal Miss Dorothy Wright emphasizes.

Young Carmel . . .

The annual Beach Rally, sponsored by members of Carmel High School Rally Club, will be held at the foot of Ocean Avenue at 8:30 o'clock on Friday evening. A party at the Youth Center will follow.

Go Carmel is the rally theme. The pre-school-opening event will be a kick-off for the football season to promote school spirit and cheering support for team players. All High School students are urged to be present.

On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, High School students are asked to meet in the school gymnasium at 1:00 o'clock to paint posters for the beach rally and this fall's football games. Paper and paint will be provided but those attending are asked to bring brushes. Rally Club members will be in charge of the Work Days on both afternoons.

Prepare To Dig For 21c Tax Raise

Francis Whitaker had their way. Mayor Putnam had no intention of allowing Councilman Norberg to open discussion on the city employees' salary schedule which was adopted last month. Norberg complained that when they considered the schedule, which involved a $23,000 pay raise, no discussion of revenue had been allowed, nor had it been known that the council would be faced with a budget which would require a 21 cent property tax increase to balance. Also, the salary discussion had been in "executive session" (closed to the public.) Norberg read the Brown Act to the council, literally.

John Chitwood, holdover councilman with Norberg, and his antagonist in many fierce word battles during the past two years said:

"I don't think a councilman should be prevented from saying what he wants, even if we don't agree with him. I'm willing to hear him if he wants to take us to task."

Councilman Eben Whittlesey agreed with Chitwood, but "I don't see any purpose in launching into the Brown Act. If there are specific suggestions . . ."

Of 59 northern California Cities comparable to Carmel in size, our city employees, "wonderful though they are, are exceedingly well paid," said Norberg. Our fire-chief's pay is first in the 59 cities' pay brackets for fire chiefs; our police chief, third; our city attorney, second; our city clerk "above all others;" our clerk typest, first; our firemen, second; our gardener, first, etc.

Salaries here compare well with those paid by nearby cities, he continued; the three percent pay raise just granted is not justified, he contended and proposed that it be discontinued after three months to save $6,000, plus the increased retirement costs.

This motion died for the lack of a second.

Norberg then proposed postponing for a year the hiring of additional personnel; a cement finisher, $5,000, for the street department; an investigator for the police department, $4,860. He proposed to cut $100 out of "the city clerk's $310 a month increase in salary over the past two and a half years," reducing the present $880 a month to $780.

The city clerk had removed himself from the council chambers when Norberg launched into a discussion of his salary, and this gave the councilmen, also Harrison Godwin and Pat Hall in the audience, an opportunity to praise him and his work. Whittlesey pointed out that part of the wage increase is compensation for duties as secretary to boards which Councilman Norberg initiated, the art commission and the forest commission.

Mrs. Jeannie Klenke, in the audience, said, "It isn't only Mr. Rose; I think all the city employees should be content with the good salaries they are getting. Other cities are holding the line."

In answer to Norberg's proposal to postpone hiring additional employees, the councilmen said that changing conditions require more staff in the police department, and that increasing liability insurance premiums indicate that repair of sidewalks is long past due.

Norberg's other proposals for reducing the budget and avoiding a 21 cent tax jump were also voted down. They were:

That the $10,000 set aside for the five year land purchase project, (White Property) be reduced to $5,000 this year and increased next when new sources of revenue may be found.

That the depreciation allowance be cut from $14,000 to $10,000, and made up next year.

That the street department wait until next year to replace a truck to avoid a $3,810 drain on the depreciating fund;

That $23,934 liability insurance premium be cut to $12,000, to protect city for three months, during which period the city would arrange to be its own insurance carrier. Putnam called this half-baked. However, the council promised to consider the city's becoming at least partially its own insurance carrier.

The council also put on the agenda, various proposals for raising new revenue to be effective next year. Whitaker's suggestion that the over-time parking fine be raised from $2.00 to $2.50; Norberg's proposal for a bed tax, like a sales tax on motel and hotel accommodations; a proposal by Whitaker's suggestion that a parking license be required to park in the post office lot, on the agenda.

In answering Norberg's proposals for economy, Mayor Frank Putnam said that the council had a responsibility to provide services to the residents; the economies Norberg proposed would make that impossible, he said.

Clerk Lawrence Rose promised that next year it might be possible to reduce the property tax at a time when property owners would most feel the need for such a reduction; when the new property assessment becomes effective.

Kuster Eye-View Of Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

Kurt Weill music. Morris Ankrum played Mack the Knife, and the large cast of 40 was virtually inspired. I had been allowed playing rights for only seven days, and many people came every night, including Adoph Bolm, the famous Russian dancer and choreographer. A bizarre incident of this production was that when I started rehearsals I had not quite finished the translation from the German, and daytime would find me frantically translating what we were going to rehearse that night.

It took nearly 30 years for London and New York to discover this extraordinary play, which has now been the rage in both cities for several years.

Play after play followed. I took Karl and Anna to San Francisco. George Warren, in the Chronicle, said of it, "One wonders why it had so little success in New York. It has sustained power and holds great interest. The Golden Bough Players give a good performance, smooth, correct, atmospheric."

Ada Hanifin, in the Examiner, said of the play, "It was worthy of our best professionals."

What I am trying to make clear to you is that in the seven short years since Redfern Mason's blunt, critical comments a large group of Carmel's undisciplined dilettantes had been transformed into a compact body of really expert players, capable of tackling the most difficult assignments. Let me quote Orrick Johns, in the Carmelite, "I think that with Mr. Kuster it is a sort of gay confidence, after all these accomplishments, that his group can do almost anything."

And so they could, at least during those years of 1930 and 1931. Of R.U.R., the robot play, Bassett wrote in the Carmel Cymbal, "It has been many years since I have felt that I was sitting in the presence of anything so great and magnificent."

They Knew What They Wanted brought down the wrath of the united clergy of the Peninsula, all on account of some innocent Italian-American oaths expressed by the old hero, Tony Patucci, and also because of similar oaths he asserted that God was directing against him. The Peninsula newspapers charged to the rescue of the play, the ministers passed a resolution which is a choice collector's item in my files, and the play continued to do a splendid business. Compared to the unbridled language of some of today's plays, Patucci's profanity now sounds very mild indeed.

I want to digress for a moment and pay tribute to two men, Peter Friedrichsen and William Gaskin, who for nearly a dozen years, alternately, gave freely and generously of their time and great talent in designing and executing settings that were in perfect harmony with the kind of theatre the Golden Bough and its Studio stood for. Peter died in Hollywood some years ago, but Bill Gaskin is still teaching in the Rudolph Shaeffer School of Design in San Francisco. Fine artists both, whom Carmel should not have forgotten. But sad to say, Old Carmel has forgotten them, and New Carmel has never known them.

Returning for a moment to those two top-drawer seasons of 1930 and 1931, I shall trouble you with only one more quotation. Of Beggar on Horseback, Martin Flavin wrote: "I have a sour and bilious eye, but it can be made to twinkle. Beggar on Horseback was delightful—staged and directed with fine taste and delicacy, and more than just adequately acted. The complicated scene-shifting was achieved miraculously—skill alone cannot account for it."

pleased to hear of Congressman Teague's telegram. It means $5000 more federal compensation to the Carmel Unified School District for the military kids it educates, they explained. Annually, "federally impacted" school districts apply for the amount of money they are entitled to but in the past they have received not more than 90 percent of it.

This year the Carmel Unified School District applied for $48,000, and according to Congressman Teague's wire, will get all of it, which is 10 percent or about $5000 more than past experience had lead anyone to expect.

With the federal government, apparently, you can feel like Christmas just getting what you are entitled to.

This decade will be designated in local history as Carmel's Changeful Days. We grumble but we survive.

We adjusted to the physical changes in the remodelled post office last week and this week we adjust to a new post office phone number, MAyfair 4-1525.

"It's because we have pushbuttons," Bill Woolsey explained. "We used to have one number and two phones. Now we have two numbers, and if one is busy the other works automatically. You need a new number for pushbuttons."

Carmel entered its age of mechanisms in 1954 when the city bought a mechanical street sweeper. Those of us who survived that, and practically all of us did, are not likely to be floored by pushbuttons on the post office telephone.

Carmel planning commission yesterday afternoon approved size and location of a sign for the Bank of America, also Edith Larson and Karl Burghardt's The American Way. They denied an excess footage Best Western Motel sign at the Jade Tree Inn, limited a Crocker-Anglo Bank sign to 16 square feet. They allowed Howard Bucquet to cut a new doorway between two shops and gave Senator Fred Farr a 90-day extension for his apartment and office building at the southeast corner of Monte Verde and Seventh.

They also set September 8, at 8:00 o'clock in the evening at city hall, as the time and place to meet with county planning department members and decide if the Carmel Valley Master Plan is in accord with the General Plan for Carmel.

Chairman Herbert Blanks and Commissioner J. B. Martin were authorized to attend the League of California Cities' annual conference in Los Angeles in October.

Planners Make Five Changes In Zoning Ordinance

the new ordinance to take care of such instances as the I. Magnin Co. mosaic. Commissioners decided in future any similar exterior decoration should be submitted with the architectural plans of the building. They also decided to ask the city attorney to incorporate into the new ordinance some control governing repainting or redecorating of the outside of business district buildings. This action came after they heard protests against the exterior decoration of Candyland in a letter from Mrs. Charles S. Reed.

Ice storage houses were not needed in Carmel, commissioners decided, and removed this conditional use from C-1-S zone. Sheet metal shops were too noisy to be anywhere except in the C-2 heavy industry area they thought.

Still left as conditional uses in C-1-S are bus depots and transit stations, Christmas tree sales lots, churches, parish houses or other religious institutions, food lockers, gas stations, parcel delivery stations, plumbing shops.

Bus stations were left in because the commission judged a restricted location for this service would be "an ill-designed C-2 use and an ill-service to the city," as expressed by Chairman Herbert Blanks.

Christmas tree lots are seasonal and small and therefore should remain as a C-1-S conditional use according to the commission.

"Gas stations," said Commissioner J. B. Martin, "are getting to be a rough deal." Mr. Blanks did not like the idea of gas stations "lined up in C-2" where they are a permitted use. Commissioner Hugh Smith pointed out the tendency of gas stations to "gravitate together" and thought such clustering on Junipero Street, a main entrance to Carmel, was not desirable.

"The C-1-S conditional use gives us control. We can say no gas station here, but we would have no control in C-2."

In respect to C-1-S conditional uses in general, Commissioner Florence Josselyn remarked that if certain uses are forced out of Carmel, residents will have to go elsewhere for these services and do their ordinary shopping there, too. This will affect Carmel business."

Commissioner Dorothy von Meier intimated that outside shopping would reduce sales tax revenue and eliminate "low taxes."

Admiral Fisher, chairman of the Citizens Committee, asked commissioners to consider the Los Gatos ordinance which provides amortization and a termination date for all noncomforming uses. He suggested this idea could be applied to gas stations in Carmel.

The suggestion that business building sites be limited to 8,000 square feet with 75 per cent building coverage was considered by the commission to be a matter which the council should decide.

The limitation of one motel to a block, suggested by the Citizen's Committee, might mean one motel covering a block or four motels clustered at an intersection, commissioners remarked and took no action.
